

#AbleTo

Get to know the Field Guide

Work together across campus

What it means

Create more formal connection points and opportunities for knowledge sharing, so student-facing service providers at your post-secondary institutions know how become more adaptable to students when their needs fall outside conventional roles or offices.

What it achieves

More connection points and opportunities for knowledge sharing enables service providers to identify the right resources for students with disabilities, direct them to these resources and create better experiences for them.

What you get

- Plans for campus knowledge sharing and events.
- Presentations to raise disabilities awareness.
- Guides to find and encourage accessible hiring.
- Ideas for how to collaborate across campus service providers.

In meaningful ways, we now connect the teams in our Co-Op and Career Centre with our accessibility services. We really benefited tremendously.

-Jeff Agate, Algonquin College